Description

This pair of Kaiser Idell model 6716 lamps, emblematic of the 1930s, is a perfect example of Bauhaus design by Christian Dell. Each lamp is equipped with a dome-shaped shade and a hinged arm mechanism allowing precise adjustment of the light. The clean design, with lacquered metal finishes and chrome details, reflects the elegance and functionality characteristic of this period. The stable base provides a solid foundation, while the flexible arm makes it easy to adjust the direction of the lighting. These lamps are ideal for a desk, a work table, or as sophisticated decorative elements in any modern or vintage interior. Their combination of style and functionality makes this pair a valuable addition to any design collection.
