Description

Rectangular display case in blackened wood with a mustard yellow fabric background. It has four glass shelves (three wide and one half-width) which can be arranged as desired using the movable battens. Probably dating from the 1930s or 1940s, it housed the collections of a renowned antique dealer and was made with older glass which is difficult to capture in photos. The glass face at the front is held in place using four small hooks; there is no hinge system. There are some chips on the glass shelves. The whole is in good general condition, quite elegant. Dimensions: height 93 cm - width 62.5 cm - depth 17 cm.
