Description

Here is a gold powdered Murano glass floor lamp. It is a production of the Venetian house Seguso Vetri d'Arte circa 1940. This elegant luminaire is made up of different multi-lobed elements nested vertically and resting on a round base rimmed in brass. It is equipped with its original sandblasted glass bulb cover. It has three light points, each equipped with its own individual switch. It is topped with a new custom-made lampshade. This light fixture bears witness to the refined and elegant productions of glass artisans in Venice before the Second World War. It diffuses a magnificent light reflected by the exceptional work of the glass. It is, for its age, in magnificent condition and the glass is in perfect condition.
