Description

Important covered bowl in neo-Gothic style with representations of weapons and knights

Important covered bowl in ciborium type in neo-Gothic style (late 19th century) with representations of weapons and knights. The cup rests on four feet, between each foot at the base there are four representations of knights. In the upper part there are six hand-painted and enameled medallions and figures on a blue background representing a historical figure of the medieval French nobility as well as weapons.

This is an interesting piece that would require real research.
