Decorated bronze stirrup, a typology from 16th century, or early 17th, Henri IV reign, A civil stirrup, France or Spain, (our Languedoc?).

There is not much easily accessible documentation on these non-military objects; the Beucaire equestrian museum, which is quite specialized, has still not reopened.

Our stirrup is a rare witness to this era, cast bronze in shape, with beautiful curves and profiles, engravings repeated in chasing, hatched and beaded foot grid, organized floral engravings, ending in an openwork shell at reception of the upper strap .

Beautiful object, in its old patina, a breakage, indicated by our red arrow, easy to hide invisible.
