Description

This watercolor presents a Mediterranean landscape, probably Italian, signed Paul Pascal and dated 1874. At the seaside, in a hilly landscape, a group of fishermen in the foreground sets out to sea, while a donkey and his master run along the coast. In the distance, a village discovers a citadel on the heights. The pictorial quality is absolutely sublime, both in the drawing and in the mastery of the watercolor technique of the artist Paul Pascal, known for his orientalist gouaches covering the entire Mediterranean region. The artist, born in 1839 in Toulouse, trained at the School of Fine Arts in Madrid and having lived in his youth in North Africa, is one of the figures of French orientalist painting.
