Pierre Commarmond 1897-1983

This painter from Lyon was a landscape specialist. After the Second World War, he became artistic director of the Chaix printing house. He exhibited at the Indépendants in 1931 and 1932 and was a successful participant at the Salon des peintres de montagne.

Commarmond was a student of Karl Cartier and took classes at the Galland studio. He then worked at Éditions Mayeux, organized tourist exhibitions in train stations and produced numerous posters for the railways.

A member of the French artists, the Salon de l'École française and the École de la Marine, he
