Chaumière in Paris. He continued to exhibit his work in art fairs and galleries until his death in 1989. Albert Genta's work is mainly characterized by his paintings of nude women. His models were often women he had met on the street or in Parisian cafés. His paintings are done in oil on canvas. He often uses bright colors and strong contrasts to emphasize the forms of his models. Some of his best-known works include "Seated Nude" (1945) and "Naked Woman Seated on a Bed" (1950). Albert Genta's works have been sold at auction on numerous occasions. In 2015, a painting titled "Reclining Nude" was sold at auction for EUR26,600. The following year, another of his paintings, "Naked Woman Seated on a Bed", was sold for EUR29,000.
