Description

This piece of furniture, made in Paris, opens at the waist with a large drawer in amboyna burl highlighted by a grooved rod and a rosewood strip. This drawer is fitted with an original lock with a posterior key and an applied entrance motif with foliage decoration. The interior in speckled maple is compartmentalized and has drawer units to protect against accidental falls. The lower part has a double door in amboyna veneer, with central panels, also highlighted by a rosewood strip, molded rods and rosettes. This opening is fitted with an original top and bottom lock, functional, with key and entry. The interior offers three English-style drawers in speckled maple with a rosewood front. The plinth also conceals a last drawer. The uprights are represented by turned, ringed and fluted columns
