Description

Pretty tea table in patinated beech, decorated and pyrographed from the 1900s. It consists of two tops in the shape of a "guitar body". They are made of waxed wood, decorated and pyrographed with cornflowers, insects (bees), 'passementerie' knots, lambrequins and 'grids'. The edges are in 'bec de corbin'. They rest on four arched 'S' legs, fluted and raised. Good general condition despite slightly erased decorations in places.
