Description

A beautiful collector's copper, old thick copper, well treated,

Oval pheasant pot mounted from brass crenellations, 4 rolling feet that rested on embers, the large riveted ears, handle, also copper, forged in shape, and lid, watertight and hollow, to fill it with water, promoting internal condensation.

Patina is beautiful, we can clearly see the brazed brass crenellation assembly (red arrows)

It is a pot of about 5 liters, which can still be used: no holes or cracks, internal tinning still present.

Forged copper handles and feet are characteristic of Alpine countries, Switzerland, Northern Italy, Tyrol, Germany....

18th or early 19th century object

Good condition, a few dents on edge of lid, tinned
