Description

Italian floor lamp from the 1930s, in mahogany with a Murano glass tulip. The shaft of the lamp is made of a beautiful veined blond mahogany. The base, of a more complex design, in an octagon, with an eight-pointed star in its center, and on the sides double-sloped sconces. At the top of the shaft four semi-curved branches present a magnificent tulip with wavy edges. The glass is finely bubbled, with an amber coloring, very nuanced, emphasizing the dynamics of the undulating movement. A magnificent example of Italian Art Deco, as decorative when unlit as when lit.
