Description

Oil on panel (three boards, not parquet) representing The bath of Diana and her attendants in an imaginary cave. Work from the 17th century in very good condition. Panel not curved and not cracked in a later gilded wooden frame (19th century). Painting attributed to Abraham van Cuylenborch (1620-1658) whose subject in caves with an Italian landscape is totally to be connected by the hand of this artist. Note that Abraham Van Cuylenborch did not always sign his works.
