Description

An elegant Empire period trumeau, beautifully preserved, featuring a light lacquered wooden frame adorned with stunning gilded motifs. The upper section is decorated with an urn, emblematic of the Empire style, finely carved and gilded, reflecting the antique influences favored during the reign of Napoleon I. The corners of the trumeau are embellished with delicate gilded rosettes that harmoniously frame the central design. The lower section includes an embedded mirror, surrounded by a finely sculpted gilded frame, adding a touch of refinement and elegance to the piece. This trumeau, typical of Empire decorative arts, will enhance any classical interior, bringing grandeur and nobility. A rare piece of exceptional quality, perfect for collectors of 19th-century furniture or period décor.
