Description

Oil on paper mounted on cardboard representing a landscape at dusk, a favorite subject of the artist who excels in the play of shadows and light.

The sky, a source of light, is thus the main element of his work. On this subject he declared "Everything is in the sky, the clouds and the atmosphere intoxicate me, it is the inexhaustible, it is the infinite"

Unsigned but annotated on the back, (the painting was dismantled to take the photo)

François Auguste Ravier was born in 1814 in Lyon, died in 1895 in Morestel.

He studied at the Beaux Arts in Paris in the studios of Théodore Caruelle and Jules Coignet.

He stayed in Auvergne where he met Corot, whose influence he was influenced by.

Several of his paintings have been exhibited at
