Description

Important oak sculpture representing James, son of Zebedee commonly called Saint-Jacques, brother of John, both among the twelve apostles of Jesus Christ. Legend has it that James went to evangelize Spain. Returning to Jerusalem after many years, the holy man was beheaded and his remains brought back to Compostela by his disciples, which became one of the high places of Catholic pilgrimage. This 18th century work presents the saint with his pilgrim attributes, his staff, his bag, his wicker basket and his hat bearing his emblem, the shell. This important sculpture will bring a unique dimension to your decoration.  Period: 18th Excellent condition. Later base and staff.
