Description

This mahogany pedestal table, dating from the art deco period of the 1930s, is an elegant and refined piece of furniture. It is distinguished by its small drawer in the belt, decorated with a bronze drop handle with a cord decoration. The belt of the table is embellished with marquetry alternating rectangles of stained wood and rosewood, adding a touch of sophistication. The table top is underlined by a wide fillet, highlighting the beauty of the wood. The legs, which taper towards the bottom, are decorated with rosewood ovals, adding an additional aesthetic dimension. These legs are connected by a spacer tablet, using the same pattern as the top of the furniture, ensuring visual coherence and perfect stability. This pedestal table perfectly embodies the spirit of art deco, combining
