

Naval Officer's Dagger, Restoration Period

950 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Other

Length : 57 cm

Description

These naval daggers, although banned by Emperor Napoleon, had been worn by officers throughout the imperial period. Logically, officers continued to wear daggers during the Restoration, but the weapons were decorated with attributes related to the new ideology. This is why we find on this dagger a beautiful decoration of Fleurs de Lys.

BLADE: It is of lenticular section. Length of the blade = 39.5 cm, width near the guard 1.5 cm, thickness near the guard 3.5 mm

GUARD: It is made of brass, with 2 straight quillons, and has in its middle the representation of an anchor with its rope, which is characteristic of the period.

GRIP: it is made of very finely engraved horn and ends on the side of the guard with a brass ferrule.

Dealer

Sud.Arsenal

Armes et armures anciennes

Mobile : 0607300666

Trouvedeniers

Pradinas 12240

POMMEL : it is made of brass finely decorated with fleur-de-lys. It ends with a flattened button on which the blade's tang is riveted.

SCABBARD: it is made of stitched leather.

Scabbard entrance and rivet are made of gilded brass. Shell-shaped attachment tab characteristic of naval weapons, at the level of the chape It is a beautiful elegant object, in good condition at a reasonable price

. Ref C-2454

Shipping costs France 20EUR, Europe 30EUR