Description

Discover this magnificent oil on canvas executed with a knife by the French painter Jacques Cordier in 1971. The work offers a striking view of the port of St Tropez from the sea, capturing the serene and mysterious atmosphere of seascapes at dusk. The lively knife strokes and the twilight color palette give this painting a depth and intensity that invites escape. Jacques Cordier's knife style, characteristic of his period between 1960 and the early 1970s, is distinguished by its dynamism and expressiveness. This bold technique contrasts with his later, more evanescent works, and testifies to the artist's mastery in the use of material and light.
