Description

Rare console table that can also be used as a desk accompanied by a stool (h 90 cm). Nomadic art originally used as a palanquin and luggage rack under the tent. The four finely carved legs with geometric decoration are connected by crosspieces in fromager wood. The whole is linked by wet skins, in order to achieve a strong tension. The finesse of the sculptures on the four grewia legs of our table indicates the antiquity and social importance of its owner. Cowhide top. Mauritanian Nomadic Art from the first half of the 20th century
