This volume contains 492 pages of detailed accounts of the key theological decrees and dogmatic decisions that shaped the Counter-Reformation. The leather binding, with gilt decorations on the spine, reflects 18th-century craftsmanship. The title is engraved in gold on a red label on the spine, and the text is printed with clear, sharp lettering.

This book would be a treasured addition for collectors of religious history or those studying the impact of the Council of Trent.

Measures: Height: 20.5 cm

Width: 13.5 cm

Thickness: 4 cm

Condition Report: The book shows visible wear on the leather-bound cover, with scuff marks, minor damage on the spine, and taped repairs. The pages have slight foxing and age spots but are well-preserved and completely legible. No major tears are noted, and the binding remains intact. Despite the cosmetic imperfections, the book holds great historical importance.
