Description

This is a high-quality early 19th-century reverse glass Ex-Voto painting, a traditional devotional piece often used as an offering for blessings, especially for couples seeking protection and blessings from the Virgin Mary. Ex-Voto paintings frequently depicted miraculous scenes or acts of gratitude for divine intervention, and this piece captures a moment of spiritual significance. In the corner, as typical for Ex-Votos, the Virgin Mary appears, bestowing her blessings upon the central figures of the scene.

The painting is done in vibrant colors, with the figures' facial expressions conveying deep devotion and faith. The reverse glass technique used here highlights the meticulous attention to detail, making the image vivid and luminescent.
