Description

Large DAUM vase with meadow cardamine decoration, circa 1910, signed DAUM Nancy with the Lorraine cross, followed by the initials or painter's signature. Mottled white and orange marbled glass vase, a multi-layered glass piece decorated with meadow cardamine flowers and foliage, acid-etched and painted with polychrome enamels on a marbled white and orange speckled background. The neck has a triangular section, the body with a swelling in continuity with the circular base. The shield-shaped signature is acid-etched, bearing the inscription "DAUM NANCY" along with the Lorraine cross, followed by the initials "AR" of the painter. The decoration is extremely fine, and the high quality of execution is evident. The presence of the painter's initials indicates the level of
