Biennale

Between 1956 and 1967, he exhibited more regularly in Paris at the "Salon Comparaisons".
1968- "Pineau-Chaillou" Prize from the city of Nantes.

1974- The Nantes Museum devoted a solo exhibition to him. "I developed the desire to paint the banks of the Loire, this wide and dirty river, which sometimes takes on the air of a great lady under incredible light. And I wondered what colors it adorns itself with, and where this mystery came from", exhibition catalogue Musée des Beaux Arts- Nantes from October 25 to November 26, 1974. Framed dimensions: 76 x 54cm, canvas only: 55 x 33cm.
