Description

Pretty Louis XVI dressing table, in walnut with light and dark wood inlay, with geometric patterns of diamonds and rectangles. The top opens with two side flaps revealing boxes and a central flap, fitted with a small mirror (changed), covering a box upholstered in velvet. The front opens with three drawers (2 small + 1 large) and a writing drawer trimmed with black leather. The whole rests on four "sheath" feet. Provincial work from the end of the 18th century, in very good original condition.
