Description

This vintage lamp from the 60s - 70s will bring a touch of charm and modernism to your interior whatever it is. Charlie Chaplin under his street lamp, a touch of nostalgia perhaps for the old ones, a pinch of curiosity for the youngest. Notice the richness of the details, the cane of course and the bundle placed on the ground. Everything is there, not a crease is missing from Charlie Chaplin's wide pants and we can guess his tie and his little vest under his jacket closed with only two buttons. The material, probably a resin, allows a great finesse of the face. We will just note a small defect on the edge of the hat. This lamp looks great with its 47 cm height on a good base of 15 cm for stability. Its sphere of opaque white glass diffuses a bright light without blinding. Charlie Chaplin aiso called "Charlot" in
