success of Longchamp can be summed up in 2 words: Innovation and quality. The Parisian French leather goods company was founded in 1948 by Jean Cassegrain. The company is known for its leather and canvas handbags, travel goods, fashion accessories and, most recently, its ready-to-wear. The brand is now distributed in over 300 boutiques worldwide. The house is still owned and run by the Cassegrain family. Its muses include Kendall Jenner, Lily Cole, Alexa Chung and Kate Moss. The house was awarded the Entreprise du patrimoine vivant label in 2007, which recognizes French companies with excellent craftsmanship and industrial know-how.
