Description

Iranian wool kurk* rug, cotton warp and weft, circa 1950. Good condition. Dozar  format.

Located southwest of Isfahan, the small town of Nadjafabad is inspired by the academic achievements of Isfahan while having a less precious but refined side. These are classic rugs and very resistant to wear. The design is often, like this one, composed of a central medallion, unpicking and floral scrolls in the field of the carpet. The quality of the borders is always neat. Some nuances in the border without gravity.

*Kurk wool: fine lamb's wool collected by combing. Strong and durable wool.

Dozar: carpet format of approximately 2 m².

The zar is a Persian measurement corresponding to 106 cm. Dozar = 2 times the zar.
