Description

Beautiful mahogany and gray marble barbershop, early 19th century, in the empire style. The elegant, geometric shape of the furniture, the columns, make this system furniture a classic of interiors renewed at the turn of the century. The man, often a soldier, shaves alone, standing. The small drawers are for razors, and the mirror (still mercury) is tilting and retractable. Large drawers at the bottom allow you to store towels. The upper marble slides forward to remove the mirror from its reserve. Another marble below was used to place the water jug. The furniture is in good condition (a small lack at the bottom of the veneer and some water stains) Unfolded mirror, it is approximately 150 cm high
