Description

Antique early 19th century enameled gold medallion pendant set with rose-cut diamonds representing the character Harlequin. Harlequin is a typical character of the commedia dell'arte who appeared in the 16th century in Italy, with a black mask and whose costume is made of multi-colored diamonds. The pendant comes with its original gold and seed pearls chain. Weight : 11,4 gr. Condition: Very good. No defect in the enamel. Small chip in the original back glass (nothing serious but it can be easily replaced on request).
