Description

Charming drawing in three pencils, from the 18th century, representing a young girl mourning her dead bird. This subject and the way of treating it in the form of a "head of expression", allows it to be compared to the works of Jean-Baptiste GREUZE who made it a specialty. Our drawing is entirely in this vein, and very finely executed. Its state of conservation is irreproachable, and it is presented in its period gilded wooden frame. Total dimensions: 28 X 24.5 cm, and 21.5 X 18 cm at sight.
