Description

Very beautiful stone carved with the Royal Coat of Arms of Savoy. It decorated the main entrance door of a large property ("Tanca") belonging to a noble family of Catalan origin (Amat) who put down roots in the Kingdom of Sardinia (1297-1861) from the 14th century. When the Princes of Savoy acquired the Kingdom of Sardinia in 1720, they inherited the title of King and adopted its emblem: in an oval a red cross on a white background surmounted by the imperial crown. The word "Tanca" which appears on the stone comes from the Catalan "Tancar" = to close - to surround, and designates a castle - farm of feudal origin.
