velvet, impeccable fringes and edges.

This magnificent Indo-Persian rug takes up the criteria of ancient Persian decorations, knotted with great finesse and a superb quality of kork wool mixed with silk. Around 1980, we can hardly imagine the immense work that went into knotting such a marvel.

The quality of these pieces is not to be demonstrated, the work is fine, precise and durable over time.

The materials used are of the highest quality: the fine and soft kork wool, taken from the neck and under the belly of the lambs (first shearing) makes up the velvet knotted on a fine cotton for the weft.

This carpet is clean, the wool is knotted admirably and finely tight as these carpets always are. It reveals to us nuances full of contrasts, many colors, including many blues, red, almond green, black and ivory

A medallion with an ivory and brown field, four halberd spandrels decorated with flowers and branches.

It is surrounded by a border grouping together foliage and large stylized flowers.

Traditional wool carpet, comfortable and very popular. The nuances underline this learned floral design in the great tradition of Persian art. Persian art that is also found in Mughal art, inspired by the miniatures of the Tabriz school, then capital of the Persian Empire.

over time.
