Description

This impressive bronze sculpture, depicting a Roman chariot drawn by four horses, is an exceptional work of art from early 20th century Italy. Standing a remarkable 120 cm tall, the sculpture is both grandiose and rich in detail, making it a remarkable piece for any collection or space. Created in the early 1900s, this patinated bronze group depicts a Roman soldier in traditional armour and helmet, skillfully captured as he commands his chariot. The finely crafted details, from the soldier's animated posture to the hand-carved ornamentation on the chariot, are testament to the high level of craftsmanship. The powerful horses, posed in mid-gallop, convey an incredible sense of movement and intensity, evoking the drama and excitement of ancient Roman chariot racing. The naturalistic rock base
