Description

TYPICAL CHARACTER OF THE 50'S whose style is emblematic of the 1950's, this drawing captures the spirit of the time. This period, marked by a significant cultural and artistic evolution, is characterized by diverse influences, ranging from modernism to the beginnings of pop art. The lines of the drawing are fluid and dynamic, creating a sense of movement and life. The contours are well defined, which is typical of the 50's, where visual clarity was often favored. The 50's often saw characters with marked expressions, aiming to communicate specific emotions in a clear and direct way. Drawing on card stock in colored pencil, pastel and graphite in very good condition. This work is part of an album of drawings made by the artist between 1955 and 1956.30 x 21 at sightSigned lower right
