Description

Painting from the beginning of the 20th century. Rue de l'épicerie in Rouen, dominated by the Gothic cathedral. This place was painted by great impressionists such as Sisley or Pissarro, then by the painters of the Rouen school, for example Marcel Delaunay or Xavier Boutigny. Good condition, has reinforcement strips between the edges of the canvas and the frame. Also has writing and an illegible date in pencil, on the back, on the canvas frame.
