Description

Bolognese chest of drawers, from the Louis XVI period, of rare elegance. Veneered in walnut, rooted and threaded with essences of precious woods on all surfaces: on the front, on the sides and on the top. The visually pleasing feature that makes Bolognese chests of drawers of this period rare is the type of construction of the top that is not supported and protruding from the structure of the furniture but is "incorporated" and therefore does not protrude. Width cm. 131.5, depth 55.5 cm., h 99 cm.
