Description

This wardrobe from the first half of the 18th century is made of oak. Small in size, it opens with two doors and two drawers on the front. If the entire Louis XIV style piece of furniture was made in the 18th century, the very beautiful sculptures were made in the middle of the 19th century, in the Regency style the decoration is composed of numerous motifs such as shells, fleurons, flower falls, foliage and acanthus leaves. The high quality work is the work of an excellent craftsman who fully mastered his art. The interior is composed of three shelves. 18th century period. Dimensions, height 210 cm, width at the cornice 163 cm, depth 65 cm.
