Description

Here is a kneeling court lady in gray terracotta most likely from the Han dynasty. It is old and has its original patina. It has not undergone any restoration, it is natural, we have carried out a summary cleaning. We report friction and traces of wear of material and decorations, a lack probably at the level of the hands, small lacks in various places, all is visible in the photos. The subject remains however in a good state of conservation. For the condition, please detail the photos. The photos are an integral part of the description.
