Description

Félix Brard was a French watercolorist from Paris, active in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. This painting depicts the scene of Leda and the Swan after the act, titled "Une Leda." It is signed and dated 1914. On the back, the following inscription can be read: "Paysage enchanté murmure la chanson envoûtante de Leda et le Cygne -- entretemps les cygnes-voyeurs, embrasés, percent le silence de cris jaloux, signes d'envie éternelle."-- LM
