Description

Very beautiful old Yixing stoneware teapot,
China, late 19th, early 20th century

Very beautiful model with rich enamel decoration of Buddhist lotus flowers, foliage, scattered clouds in the shape of lingzhi mushrooms. The lid decorated with a radiant rosette, punctuated with enamel drops around its edge, as well as the spout; a reminder of the motif on the upper edge of the object punctuates a geometric frieze of alternating inverted triangles.

The back of the object is signed with a seal mark in iron roufe.

Of relatively large dimensions, this teapot has a useful capacity of approximately 3/4 of a liter.

* Excellent condition * (note all the same that the links which formerly encircled the handle attachments have been replaced by copper wire).
