Description

Very beautiful Olla with a hemispherical body, two side handles with fox heads on each side, erect ears and a pointed muzzle, it ends with a strangled neck topped with a wide flared lip. It is decorated with a rich decoration in concentric lines of different thicknesses and colors, geometric, and cascading arcs of circles. Polychrome terracotta, one restored handle, small chips on one ear and on the top of the lip, a muzzle is missing from a fox's head, slight restoration not exceeding 3 to 5 percent of the overall mass of the work.
