Description

This magnificent Indo-Persian incense burner is a true masterpiece of brasswork.

The art of chiseling and openwork brass is at a very high level.

The whole is engraved with a complete bestiary of these regions: deer, panthers, pheasants, tigers, peacocks, chitals...

It is no less than eight ornate bands, five of which present these animals;

The other three friezes are decorated with epigraphic decorations; plants, flowers and various intertwined leaves.

This piece is openwork on four bands with tiny pierced holes, forming a trellis around the decorations and letting the light filter through the object.

The base is domed and rests on a small rounded
