Description

Art Deco sideboard in macassar veneer, French work circa 1930. Elegant Art Deco sideboard in macassar veneer, dating from the 1930s, made in an emblematic French style of the period. Its facade is distinguished by a play of sober and refined lines, highlighting the richness of the dark and contrasting veins of the macassar. The piece of furniture rests on a slightly molded base, adding a touch of refinement to the whole. Featuring three main compartments, this sideboard has a double side door with original chrome closure, as well as a central compartment decorated with functional drawers. The finely worked chrome metal fittings confirm the authenticity and quality of the piece of furniture, while the balanced proportions reflect the search for harmony specific to the Art Deco movement.
