Description

Oil painting on canvas attributed to the painter Giuseppe Ponga depicting an animated seascape with an architectural capriccio.

Venetian painter of the late 19th century, early 20th century, the last Guardesco painter "imitates Francesco Guardi" worthy of note and attention from international critics. Beautiful execution of the work where the working day of the fishermen is represented with a beautiful architectural capriccio of a ruined portico covered in the upper part by vegetation inserted on the right. Finally, the painting is inserted in a beautiful and simple golden frame slightly worked in the final part contemporary with the period of the painting but adapted to the same.
