Description

Oil on wood panel from the 19th century, Troubadour School. Beautiful oil on panel depicting a Church square scene, a scene of life on a town square, village at the foot of a church. Many characters intervene. This painting immerses us in an atmosphere of life in the Middle Ages. Troubadour School 19th century French work We can imagine that the scene takes place in Brittany, in France. Beautiful achievement Very beautiful frame with molded gilded frame. The troubadour style is an artistic movement emerging under the French Restoration, which flourished in the first half of the 19th century, and tending to reinvent and appropriate through the different arts, an idealized atmosphere of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, with a romantic side.
