Description

Solid silver pocket flask, one convex belly, the other concave, with rounded corners. The stopper is held by a movable chain around an axis, it opens by rotating a quarter turn but the cork is missing inside, so this bottle is not airtight. On the neck are the sterling hallmarks, 925/000, the number 369 and a bird in front of a shield bearing the letter W. This may be an American production, around 1920-30. Good condition, no dents or scratches. Other models in silver or silver-plated metal are available, to be discovered in the last photos. Net weight: 106 gr.
