Description

Restoration style daybed in speckled maple and mahogany marquetry. The size of this piece of furniture is particularly compact and of a very modern and sober design, the light wood is also part of the fact that it is soft and pleasant to the eye. The marquetry of acanthus leaves, flowers and various palmettes make up the dark decoration on a light background on the crosspiece and on the two uprights in the shape of inverted backrests that we find at the time of the Directory. The fabric is faded on the seat and small pieces of veneer are visible on the crosspiece.
