Description

This rosewood tiered desk, dating from the second half of the 19th century, is a remarkable reflection of the craftsmanship of the period. This fine marquetry piece of furniture offers two small drawers with Louis XV style bronze handles. The upper part of the desk is highlighted by a bronze gallery, adding a touch of elegance and sophistication. The apron of the desk conceals a larger drawer, offering a writing desk dressed in a later almond cowhide, which demonstrates the attention paid to detail and functionality. The curved legs of the desk are decorated with bronze falls and sabots, reinforcing the refined and luxurious aesthetic of this piece. This tiered desk is not only a utilitarian object, but also a decorative piece that reflects the taste and style of the late 19th century. It is interesting and relevant
