Description

Superb bust of Apollo Belvedere in white marble from the 19th century. This magnificent bust represents Apollo, the Greek god of light, arts and poetry. Inspired by the famous "Apollo Belvedere", a masterpiece of ancient sculpture, it illustrates the perfection of proportions and classical elegance. Made of white marble, this bust is distinguished by the finesse of the details, particularly in the treatment of the curly hair and the folds of the drapery. The purity of the marble gives the work a remarkable luminosity and presence. Ideal for lovers of classical art or to enrich a prestigious collection, this bust embodies both the timeless beauty and refinement of Greco-Roman aesthetics. Condition: Excellent, with slight signs of wear testifying to its age and authenticity.
